

Together we shape the future of alumina

With more than 100 years of alumina expertise and a turnover of above $500 million, Almatris is the world's leader in the development, manufacture and supply of premium alumina and alumina-based products which are mainly used in the refractories, ceramics and polishing markets. The processed materials are used in a wide variety of industries including iron and steel production, cement production, non-ferrous metal production, the ceramic, automotive, construction, the chemical, petrochemical and electronics industries and many more. Almatris is a global and fully-integrated producer, serving its customers with 1150 people from sixteen strategically located sales, research and manufacturing sites.

Almatris is seeking a

Process Engineer (m/f) based in Ludwigshafen, Germany

Responsibilities

Main focus areas are as follows:

- Performs engineering assignments and provides all required technical support and expertise with focus on process improvement projects for the production processes to ensure product quality, capacity improvement, process efficiency and streamlining as well as process, equipment & product benchmarking with other locations.
- Plans and implements improvement projects related to our production processes. Supports capital projects.
- Supports and coordinates the implementation of Lean elements and utilizes six sigma and other statistical processes to reduce process/product variability and improve quality of our products.

Qualifications

Education and/or Experience:

- Bachelor's degree (B.S.) in, Chemical, Ceramic Engineering, Process Technology or a related field in an industrial environment, from four-year college or university desired. Advanced degree in this or related field is highly desirable.
- Some experience in production process at plant level in similar industries or in a manufacturing organization will be a benefit but not required.

Knowledge and Skills:

- Must have knowledge of key equipment used in Production process preferably in Chemical Industry. Must have the ability to recognize and anticipate problems and solve them with the overall process in mind. Must exhibit strong analytical and reasoning skills.
- Fluent in English language (word and writing) as well as local language.
- Knowledge of Internet software; Manufacturing software such as Process Control software, Spreadsheet software, Word Processing software, statistical data, and working knowledge of SAP preferred but not required.

Our Offer

- Working in the international environment of an agile and fast growing industry leader with over 100 years of history
- Efficient communication and fast decision making under a modern management and a strong level of teambuilding
- Manifold opportunities to enhance your further professional development, continuing education and management of your own projects
- Attractive remuneration and social benefits package

If you want to be part of a fast growing global company, please send your resume via email to: LUD.Personalabteilung@almatris.com